
Contents

Foreword	ix
Gail E. Hawisher and Cynthia L. Selfe
Preface	xv
Introduction: Hypermedia Technologies for the Classroom	xvii
Sibylle Gruber
I. Planning and Structuring Web-Enhanced Courses
1. When Media Collide	3
David Gillette
2. Encountering Hypertext Technology: Student Engineers Analyze and Construct Web Pages	14
J. D. Applen
3. Preparing Future Teachers of English to Use the Web: Balancing the Technical with the Pedagogical	25
Larry Beason
4. The Creation Project	43
Emily Golson and Eric Sagel
II. Encouraging Research on and with the Web
5. Can Anybody Play? Using the World Wide Web to Develop Multidisciplinary Research and Writing Skills	59
Elizabeth Sommers
6. Surfing the Net: Getting Middle School Students Excited about Research and Writing	78
Jean Boreen
7. Foreign Language Resources on the Web: Cultural and Communicative Wealth on the Wires	91
Jean W. LeLoup and Robert Ponterio
8. Building a Web for Literacy Instruction	103
Sarah Rilling and Enikő Csomay

III. Supporting Collaboration and Interaction

9. Changing Writing/Changing Writers: The World Wide Web and Collaborative Inquiry in the Classroom 123
Patricia R. Webb
10. Using the Web to Create an Interdisciplinary Tool for Teaching 137
Aijun Anna Li and Margery D. Osborne
11. Alewives 146
Katherine M. Fischer
12. Writing Images: Using the World Wide Web in a Digital Photography Class 161
Anne Frances Wysocki
13. From Castles in the Air to Portfolios in Cyberspace: Building Community Ethos in First-Year Rhetoric and Composition 176
Elizabeth Burow-Flak

IV. Publishing on the Web

14. Living Texts on the Web: A Return to the Rhetorical Arts of Annotation and Commonplace 193
Dean Rehberger
15. Students as Builders of Virtual Worlds: Creating a Classroom Intranet 207
Douglas Eyman
16. Using the Web for High School Student Writers 219
Ted Nellen
17. Systems Analysis and Design Projects: Integrating Communities and Skills through the Web 226
Joy L. Egbert and Leonard M. Jessup
18. Nobody, Which Means Anybody: Audience on the World Wide Web 239
Catherine F. Smith
19. Donut Shoppes and Tea Rooms: Getting in the MOO(d) for Hypertext 250
Mick Doherty and Sandye Thompson
-

V. Resource Appendix

20. The Craft of Teaching and the World Wide Web: A Reference Essay for Educators Kevin M. Leander	279
Index	305
Editor	319
Contributors	321
